

POLICY ADVISOR POSITION AT EU.BAC

At eu.bac, we are proud to be the European voice of manufacturers in the home and building automation and control sector. Our mission is to support our member companies in decarbonising and digitalising the European building stock. To drive our vision forward, we position our industry as the go-to organisation on energy efficiency in buildings at the EU level.

eu.bac is active in promoting the benefits of the building automation and controls (BACS) industry through European standardisation and advocacy at the EU and Member State level. We have also introduced a certification system for products and systems to promote our goals further.

To strengthen our communication and advocacy capabilities in Brussels, we are seeking a dynamic and proactive

POLICY ADVISOR

Your challenge:

- Support the association's advocacy strategies in coordination with the Policy Director.
- Monitor, analyse and advise association members on any relevant policy developments.
- Advocacy for eu.bac interests regarding European energy efficiency (EE) and sustainability policies.
- Organise and actively participate in relevant events and speaking opportunities in Brussels.
- Build a strong network and coordinate with other organizations aligned with the scope of eu.bac, at both EU and national levels.
- Coordinate and prepare eu.bac meetings, manage invitations, ensure participation and write minutes.
- Create written materials such as policy papers, briefings, consultation responses, newsletters, etc. for internal & external dissemination.

Your profile:

- Previous experience with EU public affairs in Brussels, preferably within an EU institution.
- Working knowledge of the buildings sector and/or energy efficiency would be a valuable asset. Knowledge and experience with major EU energy and climate legislative files, including the Fitfor55', REPowerEU, Energy Performance of Buildings Directive (EPBD), Energy Efficiency Directive (EED), Ecodesign or Electricity Market Design would also be considered an asset.
- University graduate within an eligible field of study.
- Excellent communication and networking skills.
- Self-motivated, energetic with a "can-do" attitude.
- Organizational skills and conceptual working.
- Excellent command of written and spoken English. Second European language would be an asset.

We offer:

- A motivating and diverse job in a dynamic and rapidly growing sector.
- Involvement in a wide range of responsibilities & projects with a high level of independence.
- A committed team and a flexible working environment.
- An office in Brussels.
- A two-year contract with the possibility of extension to a permanent contract.
- Additional benefits, including meal vouchers, eco-vouchers, transport assistance, phone allowances, and more.
